

BLACK DAISIES: INTERDISCIPLINARY ART AS WORLD-MAKING

Preparation

Bring to the workshop a tangible object that represents what brings you joy or pleasure. The object will be used throughout the session.

Description

Black Daisies is an interdisciplinary project that centers joy and pleasure as political and social activism, i.e. the Pleasure Revolution! A Pleasure Revolution can only be sustainable as a communal campaign, and dismantling a system that thrives on our collective misery requires a collective commitment to not being miserable— therefore not making each other miserable. That means we have to take care of one another in order to liberate one another.

In this workshop, experience the artistic processes used to create the interdisciplinary world of Black Daisies through text, craft and installation, social dance, personal reflection and group conversations. No prior experience in creative writing, crafting or dance is required.

Materials

Text mini lesson: paper and writing utensils

Crafting/Installation mini lesson: different colored/patterned/textured paper (mix of whole & scraps), random objects, crayons/markers/pencils, tape/glue, scissors

Movement mini lesson: AUX or bluetooth speaker
